

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method of forming an optical communication path includes forming an optical path for carrying optical communications. An electrically conductive cladding is formed along the optical path for carrying at least one 5 of electrical power, control, and data along the optical path.